

Aladdin dialogue

- ALADDIN: [climbs out wearing a large clothes-peg on his nose] Phew! What a stink! It's lucky I found this clothes peg, Wishee.
- WISHEE: Never mind that, Aladdin, and tell me what you've doing all morning.
- ALADDIN: Running away from the police mostly.
- WISHEE: You were supposed to be helping me fetch this heavy laundry basket from Peking Monastery, and I had to drag it all the way here on my own.
- ALADDIN: I sometimes wish mother didn't have a contract with those monks.
- WISHEE: Why not?
- ALADDIN: They have some very dirty habits.
- WISHEE: If this washing isn't done, by the time mum gets home, she'll blow her top.
- ALADDIN: You worry too much Wishee.
- WISHEE: And you're the main cause of it!
- ALADDIN: How?
- WISHEE: Because you're always skiving off work and chasing after girls.
- ALADDIN: Do I detect a hint of jealousy Wishee?
- WISHEE: I'm not jealous of you, Aladdin, I'm mad at you!
- ALADDIN: One day I'll make my fortune, and then our family need never work again.
- WISHEE: You never worked to begin with, but that's about to change
- ALADDIN: What do you mean Wishee?
- WISHEE: [shows machine] Meet my automatic monitoring machine.
- ALADDIN: What's it monitoring?
- WISHEE: You for starters. It'll ensure that you do your fair share and stop me worrying.
- ALADDIN: Cheer up Wishee, things could be worse.
- WISHEE: How?
- ALADDIN: The washing machine could break down.
- WISHEE: Don't jinx it Aladdin. I don't fancy washing people's unmentionables by hand.
- TWANKEY: [off] Yoo-hoo! Mummy's home!
- ALADDIN: Speaking of unmentionables.
