

Genie dialogue

Enter Genie [SR] in a dressing-gown and shower-cap, holding a loofah.

- GENIE: Typical! Every time I step in the shower, somebody rubs me up.
- ALADDIN: Are you the Genie of the lamp?
- GENIE: You rubbed the lamp and I appeared – you work it out.
- ALADDIN: No wonder Abanazar was so keen to get his hands on the lamp.
- GENIE: What is your wish, master? Only make it quick, I've left the shower running.
- ALADDIN: What should I wish for, boys and girls? [response] A PlayStation? An iPhone? A free season ticket to...[local football club] Those are all very tempting, apart from that last one. But I think I'll wish for lots of gold and jewels please instead.
- GENIE: I thought you might. It's human nature I suppose.
- SLAVE: Personally, I'd wish to get out of this spooky cave.
- ALADDIN: That was going to be my second wish.
- GENIE: Gold and jewels are what people like best,
So, I'll serve you up a great big chest. [casts a spell]
